COUNTER ATTACKS OF JAPS REPULSED

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 16.—Battle-hardened leathernecks of the famous First Marine Division were developing beachheads today on Peleliu Island in the Palau group and converging on Peleliu's airdrome—the principal airport in the entire chain.

The fighting Marines who made history at Guadalcanal have pushed their initial advantage and are closing in on the extensive Peleliu airdrome according to a communique issued by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at Pacific fleet headquarters.

The Marines have carved out beachheads over an area one and a half miles long on the southwestern coast of Peleliu and have thrown back several furious tank-nosed counterattacks to push on within striking range of the enemy airdrome.

Big Air Raids On Philippines Japs Are Near

U. S. Engineers Completing Half Built Jap Airdrome Only 300 Miles Away

HALMAHERA BASE WITHIN EASY RANGE

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, In New Guinea, Sept. 16.—An intensified air assault against Japanese positions in the Philippines 30 miles away loomed today as U. S. Army engineers rushed to completion on a half-built Jap airdrome on captured Morotai in the northern Halmahera.

Gen. MacArthur disclosed today that enemy resistance pockets on the island, seized Friday in a surprise move, which by-passed Jap concentrations in the southern Halmahera, were swept clean with exceptionally light American losses.

Find Half-Finished Airdrome
As the Yanks rolled over the island from their beachheads they found the Japs had half finished an airdrome at Pitoe in the south central part of Morotai. Before the fighting had ended, American engineers who landed with the invaders had started work to put the landing strips in order.

Captain Faces Charges Result Of Wife's Death

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 16.—(INS)—Capt. Robert J. Connors, 27, today faced an indictment charging second-degree murder, as the result of the death of his wife, Lois Burns Connors, 24, of Philadelphia, Pa., in a Cincinnati hotel room July 8.

Held at Ft. Thomas, Ky., since his wife's death, Captain Connors will be arraigned Monday before Judge Nelson Schwab in criminal court if his release from military authorities can be effected by that time.

A previous verdict of natural causes in the death of Mrs. Connors was later reversed when an autopsy performed on the body in Philadelphia revealed a fracture of the laryngeal cartilage and hemorrhage.

Invasions At Philippines' Gateway

American invasion forces have landed on Palau island, 600 miles east of Mindanao, and on Morotai island in the Halmahera, within 200 miles of the Philippines. Marine and Army forces, supported by guns of Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet, stormed the Palau bastion, while Gen. Douglas MacArthur landed with the amphibious forces on Morotai. Landing losses were light.

Mid-Atlantic States Digging Out Of Debris

More Of Robots Land In Britain

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The Mid-Atlantic states still were busily digging themselves from the debris left by the great hurricane as transportation schedules returned to nearly normal.

New York, Long Island and New Jersey appeared hardest hit by the gale, which swept in full force from North Carolina to Maine before veering out to sea and diminishing in intensity.

Deaths in the immediate vicinity of New York City reached 18, most of them by electrocution from touching live wires downed by the storm. Connecticut tentatively listed four as dead, Maine one, and New Jersey and Massachusetts three each.

Severe crop losses were listed in many sections. Although the weather bureau said the storm was worse in many respects than the hurricane of 1938, the damage was estimated at less than one-tenth—about $30,000,000—of six years ago.

After Long avenue has been resurfaced the company will resurface East Washington street, east from Croton avenue to Butler avenue.

A policeman was assigned to Long avenue today to keep traffic moving, the no parking ban having been cancelled because of it being a heavy business day and pay day for many persons doing business in that vicinity.

Janice Graham May Be Placed On Witness Stand

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 16.—(INS)—Another assault on the testimony of William A. May today failed to shake the 21-year-old orphan from his claim that his erstwhile sweetheart, Janice Graham, was responsible for all three slayings on the Everitt Wilson dairy farm last October 7.

The defense, opening its side of the bizarre case this morning, called on Morell as its first witness.

A close grilling on the farm boy's movements upon discovery of the body of Mrs. Helen Wilson, the wealthy dairyman's wife, in the kitchen of the farmhouse followed. But Morell remained unperturbed and stuck to the story he previously told—that the woman lay on the floor with an ironing cord under her neck when he found her.

Defense attorneys, meanwhile, indicated they may place Janice on the stand late today or early Monday morning to tell her own version of the triple tragedy.

Final Battle For Warsaw Is Now Looming

Soviet And Polish Forces Are Closing In On City Says Moscow Report

TONS OF SHELLS FALLING ON CITY

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Sept. 16.—The final battle for Warsaw apparently was in progress today as Soviet and Polish forces closing in on the city engaged the Nazi defenders in a savage artillery duel and drove the Germans out of strong positions in Rynia north of the beleaguered capital.

As multiple tons of Soviet shells and bombs fell on Warsaw a huge pall of smoke speared by tongues of flame hung over the city.

Front line reports disclosed today that the Russians have massed huge forces of armor and infantry before Warsaw where fighting was last reported some three miles from the city.

While the battle raged around the Polish capital the Soviets apparently opened another thrust in the direction of the ancient city of Krakow when they fought their way through fanatical Nazi resistance to Anapol, 38 miles southwest of Lublin on the Vistula River.

New Gains Are Made
New gains were made by the Red armies in the region where they have reached the borders of Czechoslovakia in their twin-pronged smash toward Hungary and German Silesia. Eleven miles southeast of liberated Sanok the Soviets fought their way into Lisko and captured a number of other important towns and villages including the rail town of Ugiecie.

In their second prong closing in on Hungary in a drive through Transylvania, the Soviet armies fighting with columns of Romanian troops, seized the important rail and river town of Toplita and 40 other communities.

Dashing Soviet cavalry was brought into action in this sector which surrounded and routed strong pockets of Nazi resistance.

In a nearby sector, the Soviet communists said this morning, 1,300 dazed German officers and men (Continued on Page Two)

Latin-American Diplomats Called For Conference

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(INS)—Twelve diplomats, representing as many Latin-American countries, were summoned to the state department this morning for a conference with Secretary Hall to receive assurances that the interests of small nations are to be properly protected by the "big four" powers.

Hull did not give the diplomats text of copies of the U. S.-British-Soviet plan for post-war security, but he assured them the plan took care of their interests. He promised full disclosure of the plan in a few days, after the Chinese have been brought into the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

Thus in two quick moves, in as many days, Hull practically held an inter-American conference without moving from his own office in the state department. Yesterday he received seven Latin-American diplomats, and today twelve, which covers the entire Pan-American group except Argentina.

GERMANS NOW FEELING WAR

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, Germany, Sept. 16.—Several thousand Germans inside a broad wedge driven ten miles through the west wall by American forces above Trier today are reaping a grim "Hitler Harvest" as allied armies moved in for the Nazi kill.

Smoking villages, dead livestock and foreign military occupation have become the sudden lot of frontier inhabitants.

There is misery and devastation identical to that visited upon millions by Hitler in other lands of Europe.

In time to come, millions of Herenkov will be equally as badly off. Our guns, tanks and infantry are on a non-stop shooting, slashing and burning spree in a grand bid to smash Hitler and force a German capitulation. There are no punches pulled, no pussyfooting or hesitation. It is a case of kill and destroy.

This is Hitler's Reich, cradle of all the misery of the current war and of the Gestapo which terrorized Europe. Now it is knowing war (Continued on Page Two)

Gen. Pershing Is Improving

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The condition of Gen. John J. Pershing who "suffered a severe setback" in his physical condition last night today was reported to be improved.

The war department issued the following bulletin on the famed general:

"Walter Reed General hospital reports improvement in the condition of Gen. John J. Pershing this morning."

The morning bulletin was issued after attending physicians had examined the general. While the improvement was noted, Pershing had suffered a setback; it was emphasized that he was in no immediate danger.

Siegfried Line East Of Aachen Is Penetrated

Allied Forces Have Taken Up Positions On Eastern Side Of Steel Wall

GATEWAY CITY OF BELFORT NEAR FALL

By CHARLES A. SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Sept. 16.—American troops of Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First U. S. Army have completely penetrated the Nazis' Siegfried line east of the key city of Aachen and taken up positions on the eastern side of that steel wall, official spokesmen announced today.

29 Miles From Rhine
American invasion armies, already within 29 miles of the Rhine, forged another link in their steel chain of destruction about the Reich today when they sent formidable units plunging to the key gateway city of Belfort.

A battlerout dispatch to Reuters' news agency, detailed American Third Army Headquarters, reported that Seventh Army groups climaxed their drive northward from the Riviera by reaching Belfort, which guards the entrances to Germany along the southern invasion routes.

The penetration cannot be regarded as a complete breakthrough, but just as a penetration which will be exploited," Gen. Eisenhower's spokesmen said. The last phrase was interpreted as boding no good for the hodgepodge Nazi garrisons assigned to defend the fortified line.

Strengthen Canal Bridgeheads
Allied bridgeheads over the Escaut canal were strengthened steadily in spite of frequent German counter-blows and intense mortar fire, while south of the Scheldt estuary the enemy capacity to resist weakened noticeably. In that area, the (Continued on Page Two)

ROME, Sept. 16.—Spearheads of Greek troops fighting with the British Eighth Army in Italy smashed their way across the Marano river today in the face of suicidal counterattacks and reached the Rimini airdrome outside the eastern anchor of the German Gothic Line.

Canadian forces also established a bridgehead across the Marano in the face of murderous Nazi small arms fire and at last reports were fighting savagely for possession of San Lorenzo Correggiano.

The battered German 98th Division was reduced to a few hundred effectives after the British troops doggedly pushed their way north of the Conca river. Eighth Army forces recaptured "strong point 448" (Continued on Page Two)

To Demand Ban On Immigration

Legion Convention To Demand Immigration Halt Until Returning Vets Have Jobs

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(INS)—A ban against immigration of all persons seeking permanent residence in the United States until all of the nation's returning war veterans have jobs will be demanded at the American Legion's 26th annual national convention, opening in the Chicago Coliseum Monday.

Homers L. Chittus, national director of the American Legion committee, announced today the demand would be among five resolutions his committee will submit on the convention floor Monday afternoon.

Other Resolutions
The other four resolutions will seek:

1. Deportation of all alien Japs and return of American-born Japs to the states from which they were moved with outbreak of the war when hostilities ended.

2. An unflinching fight against racial and religious intolerance.

3. Continuation of a congressional body similar to the Dies committee.

4. Deportation of West Coast Labor Leader Harry Bridges.

Also anticipated was a demand from the convention floor that all phases of the "G. I. Bill of Rights" be made workable immediately so that discharged World War II veterans may obtain intended benefits.

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

Washington is today awaiting a report on General of the Armies John J. Pershing, who suffered what the War Department describes as a severe setback in his physical condition. Pershing is confined to his bed at Walter Reed hospital, but the department says there is no immediate danger.

Meanwhile, it is reliably reported that the man who will take charge of the Allied high command in the Pacific is Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet. Washington officials say "It's going to be an American show in the Pacific."

The latest American moves in the Pacific—invasion of Halmahera and Palau—confront the Japanese fleet today with its greatest challenge since the great sea-air battle of Guadalcanal nearly a year ago, but there is no indication that the enemy will send its remnants out to fight.

Rep. Cannon (D) Mo., chairman of the House appropriations committee, promises to make a "complete statement" on a Republican charge that he has withheld for two years a War Department report which would show whether President Roosevelt cut away federal requests before Pearl Harbor or the Pacific war. Cannon's announcement comes as Rep. Short (R) Mo., asserts that as a member of the House military affairs committee he is convinced that Mr. Roosevelt had reduced army appropriation requests.

Von Rundstedt Heads Defense

Indicates Hitler In Desperate Attempt To Bolster Nazi Defense

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

U. S. THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Sept. 16.—Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt, dean of German marshals who had been under suspicion in connection with the recent attempt to assassinate Adolf Hitler, today was reported back in supreme command of the Wehrmacht in the west.

The report indicated that Hitler, in a desperate effort to solidify the defense of the German army, has "forgotten" the rumored implication of Von Rundstedt in the plot and the ill feelings aroused by the ensuing purge.

A stiffening German resistance along the Moselle sector became noticeable yesterday. The Nazis near Point A Mousson launched one of their hardest and heaviest counter-attacks, using between 50 and 60 tanks. They were beaten back, although they recaptured one small village in their drive.

For the first time since the battle of the Moselle began, the Germans also uncoiled massed artillery in the Metz region, while above Thionville they dug in and strung wire in preparation for an extended defense.

Fleeing Nancy, the Germans ran into an ambush laid by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's men some miles to the east. Five hundred were killed and 900 taken prisoner.

In the Epinal area, the 112th Panzer brigade virtually was obliterated in recent fighting. East of Moselle and in the "junction territory" between the Third and Seventh Armies, both units are mopping up enemy pockets of resistance.

weary Nazis were contained in a strip some eight to 10 miles deep. Polish troops attached to the First Canadian Army sent patrols stabling across the Dutch border south of Sittard while the Dominion fighters themselves established a new bridgehead over the Leopold canal in the area of Echols.

Other Canadians driving hard along the strategic coastal strips captured several enemy 105-millimeter gun sites and immediately smashed the seized weapons. General Eisenhower's spokesmen said.

Already the Doughboys have achieved at least one breakthrough of the second Siegfried defenses and now are rolling forward along a 500-mile front from the Swiss frontier to the English Channel.

On Good Tank Terrain
"The German DNB agency admitted that 'very heavy fighting' is raging within the streets of Aachen, shortly after Swedish dispatches told of the Nazis beginning to quit the city."

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First U. S. Army—First Allied troops to invade the Reich and first to capture a German town—added another first to their list of records by smashing both belts of the Siegfried defenses in but 24 hours to emerge onto good tank terrain for the drive toward the Rhine and Berlin itself.

The initial breach in the second—and presumably the last—fortified belt of the Siegfried line was achieved by American infantry and tanks southeast of Aachen, which is encircled and where Yank soldiers are engaged in street fighting.

"The Allies are thrusting eastward along the 500-mile front from the Swiss border, south of Belfort, to the channel coast around the Scheldt estuary," declared Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's regular communique.

As the six mighty allied armies, including the U. S. Seventh Army, recently linked with the third American army of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, surged forward in what appeared to be the initial phase of the all-out battle of the west wall, headquarters conservatively acknowledged that advances of "several miles" were achieved in many sectors.

Tells of Breakthrough
Though failing to confirm the dispatch in the field by International News Service War Correspondent Richard Tregaskis, revealing the breach torn in the Siegfried line's second belt of fortifications beyond Aachen, headquarters told of stiffening resistance which failed to stop the American, British and Canadian drives.

Tregaskis, in a dispatch checked through censorship, said the breakthrough was achieved in an area "where no further line of the west wall is known to exist."

Near the Belfort gap at the southern end of the 300-mile front, said the report, the weak hinge of the west wall, the Germans increased their resistance. U. S. Seventh Army troops made "further progress since contact was established near Dilon with patrols" of the third army.

"The enemy's fighting suburgally from prepared positions to protect his southern flank and withdrawal movement toward the Belfort gap. Northeast of Vesoul, the seventh advanced several miles against increasing resistance," the communique added.

Four Allied Columns in Germany
In the fighting inside Germany, where at least four allied columns were advancing across the "holy soil" of the Reich, particularly fierce battling was reported in progress in and around Aachen, a city of 160,000 population.

Shortly after a Stockholm dispatch said that the Germans were evacuating Aachen, the Nazis admitted "very heavy fighting" in progress for possession of the town.

The only mention of Aachen in the official headquarters communique said that east of St. Vith, the American advance had continued

"against strongly-held pillbox defenses."

"Troops closing in on Aachen from three sides are meeting stubborn opposition," added the bulletin, which told also of the continued advance of American forces which moved beyond Maastricht and smashed still another column across the Reich frontier.

"The DNB bulletin dealing with the Aachen battle said the Nazis reached 'the city area' of Aachen from the southern and southeastern direction. Previously, the Nazis were reported to have driven into the northern outskirts of the city and engaged the Nazi garrison in bitter street fighting."

Beat Off Counter-Attacks
At the upper end of the western front, British troops beat off a number of enemy counter-attacks against their bridgeheads across the Meuse-Escaut canal. Coastal areas north of the Albert canal, meanwhile, are being "steadily" cleared of the enemy.

Near where the third and seventh armies joined, and from which region the third army is pressing a drive from the northwest toward the Belfort gap, American forces pushed to the vicinity of Fays-Billot, 42 miles northwest of Dijon. Other troops captured Montbard, 42 miles northwest of Dijon, without encountering serious opposition.

Chateaufort, six miles southeast of Neufchateau, was captured while American units reached the vicinity of Mirecourt, 13 miles to the east. In the drive toward the Belfort gap, the infantrymen of Gen. Patton's army overran Epinal after entering the Lorraine capital of Nancy.

Nazis Suffer Heavily
On all sectors, the allies continued to inflict heavy casualties upon the enemy. The seventh army was credited officially with the capture "to date" of 82,000 Germans, of which total French units were said to have taken 49,500.

Eight German generals were killed or captured during the U. S. Seventh Army's operations, during which the Yanks and French troops landed on the Riviera and stormed 33 miles northward to join with Patton's men.

French forces intercepted and wiped out a German column attempting to escape northeastward near Fays-Billot. At least 200 of the Nazis were slain, while 160 others were captured.

At Brest, where a die-hard German garrison continued to resist house-to-house fighting continued. "The Germans apparently are on their last legs in the port area," a headquarters spokesman declared.

On the German opposition the allied forces are counter-attacking, but the allies continued to strengthen their positions on the far bank of the stream.

American troops moving east of the night crossed the border, capturing the Luxembourg resistance in the form of road-blocks and minefields. Similar opposition was met around Eupen, where a first army column appeared into Germany several days ago to capture Roetgen, first German town taken, and outflank Aachen.

On the Luxembourg border, the Americans cleared Wallendorf and reached Dierkirch, six miles to the east.

A headquarters spokesman, announcing merely that Nancy and Epinal had been "entered," declined to say that either of these key towns had been "liberated."

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 16.—(INS)—An investigation of the cause of the blast at the Hastings naval ammunition depot yesterday was being conducted by naval authorities to determine if the explosion was caused by enemy action.

The dead included a coast guardman and three Negro sailors. Their identities were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Capt. Donald Patterson, commandant of the depot, said a minor explosion and fire preceded the demolition of 350 pound aerial bombs which were being loaded in freight cars.

The main blast dug a crater 550 feet long and 25 feet deep, completely destroying a concrete and steel loading dock, a transfer building, two story cafeteria, carpenter shop, and 600 feet of railroad tracks.

U. S. Court Opens At Erie On Monday

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 16.—(INS)—Preparations were underway today for the opening of the September term of the United States district court at Erie Monday.

The federal grand jury was expected to act on about 100 indictments. About 40 cases are listed for trial before Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker.

NO TOLERATION OF NAZI SNIPERS BY U. S. FORCES

to the hit and wherever a single shot is fired against us, as inside this gutted village, we turn loose every available gun.

Reply To Any Sniper
Any place in Germany where a sniper's shot whistles our troops go in and let incendiary grenades fly. We are rightly applying the torch to whole villages, houses, and the German earth when necessary to finish the war as quickly as it can be ended.

In the last few days inside Germany, our troops have been shooting to kill. One commanding officer said:

"I am giving the Germans inside their defenses a fair chance to fight. I am willing to take them prisoner. But wherever and whenever we encounter crazy hold-out fighting in mad Nazi youngsters or fanatic SS troops, we won't sacrifice a single one of our soldiers and prolong the fight by giving them leisurely time to surrender."

No Chance To Surrender
"They won't get a chance to surrender with a lot of protracted monkey business before."

This correspondent watched stray bunches of German civilians hesitatingly come out of woods, caves and other hiding places to stand aghast and stare at their ruined houses, weeping and wailing loudly. More than one Yank soldier, completely unmoved, told them that the women of Poland had got much worse from Hitler.

One Aryan beauty in gray slacks stood in front of her blackened home arguing with a batch of GIs. "Yes, we Germans seem to have lost the war," she said. "But I have no intention of apologizing for being a German. Germany existed before Hitler and will go on somehow without him. We Germans have a right to live even though you are stronger than we are."

Gathering Souvenirs
American soldiers are gathering up a lot of souvenirs hereabouts, mainly, German emblems from public buildings, pictures of Hitler and Nazi badges. Scores of Nazi party officials in full brown-shirt uniform have been captured and taken to collection centers separate from war prisoner camps.

Youngsters of ten or twelve look at us with strange quiet expressions. Some would like to come around and talk but apparently are afraid of the older folk.

Characteristic of the Germans is a tendency to look meekly over the shoulder whenever an American walks by. It is a Gestapo-acquired habit.

On the whole, the Germans of September, 1944 are a dejected lot. Hitler's hens are coming home to roost on his own doorstep.

AHEAD ON PELELI
IN PALAU GROUP

American hands, land-based fighter and bomber planes will pound nearby enemy bases on the eastern threshold of the Japanese archipelago, the usual pattern of neutralization raids which United States forces have employed since their conquests in the Gilberts, Marshalls and Marianas.

The First Marine Division is now commanded by Maj. Gen. William H. Rupertus who is directing his men on the beaches of Peleli.

Again giving the lie to Tokyo which blandly broadcast that 3,500 Americans were killed in the initial Peleli landings, Nimitz announced that "our casualties during the first day of the assault were light, although the landing beaches have been under sporadic mortar and artillery fire."

Light Losses
The only losses enumerated by Nimitz were one plane and four flight personnel in supporting aerial attacks on gun emplacements and other defense installations on the northern end of the island.

Nimitz revealed that Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's huge carrier task force, a nemesis to the Japs in the neutralization of the Marianas, is supporting the American ground forces as they push their way inland, Mitscher's storied unit is operating with the Third Fleet under overall command of Admiral William F. Halsey, in continuing attacks against Jap strongpoints impeding the Marines' advance.

Estimates of the Jap forces on Peleli place their number between 7,000 and 8,000. Of this total at least 4,000 and probably 5,000 are seasoned troops.

Forty-Five Veterans Get Jobs In August

Forty-five veterans of the present war were placed in jobs by the local U. S. Employment Service office during the past month, G. R. Gettings, manager of the office, announced.

Two of these men were placed in clerical positions and 10 in skilled occupations in essential industry. Six went into semi-skilled work, and 27 took unskilled jobs.

Finding suitable jobs for returning servicemen is one of the most important duties of the U. S. Employment Service at the present time, Mr. Gettings said. For that reason, employment office heads and other members of the Veterans' Rehabilitation committee are conferring with the head of the Altoona Veterans plan today, on the subject of the development of New Castle's plan.

Two reasons why a Checking Account is MORE IMPORTANT THAN EVER BEFORE

War has added two new reasons to the already lengthy list of arguments in favor of Checking Accounts:

1. SAVE TIME. The war program calls for all the time we all can spare. Checks eliminate waste motion, make for efficiency.
2. KEEP RECORDS. New, high taxes require accurate records so that you can compute your correct tax payment. Checks provide a permanent, accurate record.

Washington
CallingBy
MARQUIS CHILDSHillman's Position
In Present Campaign

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Sidney Hillman, the chairman of the CIO political action committee, was born in Lithuania. He came to this country as a young man and very quickly carved out for himself a position of personal power and authority through his efforts in building up the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. He speaks with a rather pronounced foreign accent.

Back of the campaign directed against Sidney Hillman is the effort to make him appear as a foreigner, an alien; to try to make it seem what he is doing is foreign and alien.

The smear attack directed at Sidney Hillman, is essentially un-American. Whether or not it is done deliberately, the effect is to capitalize on latent anti-Semitism in this country. That is plainly implied in much of the anti-Hillman propaganda. They do not say that he is a Jew, but they speak of his early "rabbinical training."

Dangerous Thing

This is a dangerous thing to do. It's playing with the fire of racial hatred. It's encouraging those who would like to make it respectable. Sometimes it seems to me that this racial poison is like molten lava under the crust of the volcanic mountain on which we live. And sometimes it seems that the crust is very thin.

It can be put down partly, I suppose, to the tensions growing out of the war. In the boiling turbulence of the vast war boom, frustrations develop and fester. Frustrated people look for a scapegoat. They put the blame on a fiction, an illusion, a shadow created in their own unhappy minds—the Jew with all the legends that hatred and malice have attached to him.

But we ought to look clearly at this thing right now. It's a poison that can destroy our society just as surely as destroyed Nazi Germany. We are not immune to the virus. It is a poison that feeds on itself, and the end is self-destruction.

No Real Answer

Some people say: "But Hillman, a Jew, should never have put himself out in front." That is no answer. There were those who said the same thing when Felix Frankfurter was appointed to the supreme court. "Oh, he shouldn't make himself so prominent."

To accept that would be to accept an inferior status; to say that brains and ability, if they are Jewish brains and ability, can go only so far. Such a doctrine cuts across everything we've cherished in this country. It denies all that the noble men who founded this nation stood for and believed in. We are all the creeds and the peoples of the earth in miraculous balance, and if we're not that, then we're nothing; we're what Hitler called us—mongrels; those of us who came two centuries ago and those who came twenty years ago.

Should Not Have Taken Place
There are good reasons, it seems to me, why Sidney Hillman should not have taken the CIO's front political position. But they have nothing to do with his race.

In my limited observation, he has always seemed maladroit in handling people. His own union has been kept carefully under his thumb and he has been accustomed to taking an authoritative line which does not go down in politics.

Somewhat the same thing happens when a big business executive tries to get into politics below or above the checkbook level. He's not worked to pushing buttons, he's telling people what to do. It does not work that way when you're out for the vote of the average John Q. Citizen.

Those who deliberately make a mockery of Sidney Hillman are doing the country a deep disservice. They are appealing to primitive prejudices which have no place in a political campaign in America. The Hillman caricature on the political horizon knows it's largely false. They believe it will frighten independent voters into the wrong camp, and maybe it will. But at the same time it will stir hatreds that will long outlast this campaign.

FAMILY TRAIT
I know that I was taught to read. To add, subtract, divide. A certain form of prayer and creed. Before the mother died; But who, in ages long gone by, Endowed the heart of me With love of bloom and butterfly And sky and rolling sea? I know the father tried to teach The ways of worthy men, And off I heard our pastors preach How life is won again; But who, I wonder, fixed my mind A thousand years away That round about me I should find Enchantments, night and day? I know the mother often stood Enraptured at a song; With pleasure looked upon the good And shuddered at a wrong; But of this tendency to dream Till useful hours have fled, This love of hill and field and stream, No word to me was said. My brothers better stand to care And waste less time in play, While I go wandering here and there.

At duty's post they stay, And this is what I'll never know Until my life is done. Who stamped me in the long ago To be so fond of fun? (Copyright, 1944, Edgar A. Guest)

Scientific Trivia
An eminent scientist tells us that the stockless fad reveals a woman's character.

Hairless legs, for instance, are the ones that should be covered because they reveal a selfish and sordid disposition.

While hair on the lower limbs are a sure indication of a wholesome and generous nature, an indication that a woman will make a true mate and an affectionate mother.

Also, hair on feminine legs is a sure sign of mental vigor, a well-balanced, normal person, while the girls who are without hairy legs are inclined to be unstable and neurotic.

So, gals, if there is fuzz on the limbs, you can feel definitely proud; and too, the more abundant it is, the more healthy you are in both mind and body.

Abundant hair—bountiful affection; sparse hair reveals a cold nature and a woman incapable of real affection, devoid of passion.

Take it that the Profession does not like bald legs!

Great Game
Of PoliticsBy FRANK R. KENT

Is Leading Factor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—WITH GREAT indignation, Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic National Committee denies that at Chicago, where Mr. Roosevelt stopped on his "non-political" tour, he told him to "clear everything through Sidney," meaning Mr. Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action Committee.

Mr. HANNEGAN may be telling the truth about this, though there are many who regard his denial as one of sheer political expediency. Representative Clare Luce, of Connecticut, showed how much she believed it on Tuesday, when, having gained unanimous consent for a 10-second speech, she made the whole House laugh by shouting, "Mr. Speaker, clear everything with Sidney." Certainly, failure of Mr. Hannegan to enter a denial would have gone a long way toward establishing the contention that Mr. Hillman is the real master of the fourth term campaign; that his relation with Mr. Roosevelt are closer than anyone else's; that the Democratic committee chairman, Mr. Hannegan, is playing a secondary role in this campaign all of which would be embarrassing to the fourth term managers from Mr. Roosevelt down. The fact is that this "clear everything" phrase is far more than a wisecrack. It is an exceedingly effective way of calling attention to a really menacing situation.

ASIDE FROM the painful position in which it would leave his Presidential candidate, Mr. Hannegan, on his own account, hardly could be expected to let so plausible and revealing a story stand unchallenged and uncontradicted. But, whether it is true or not that Mr. Roosevelt directly instructed Mr. Hannegan to "clear everything through Sidney," it is certainly true that a good many things are being cleared "through Sidney." At the convention, for example, Senator Truman's candidacy for the second place nomination undoubtedly was "cleared through Sidney." So also was the candidacy of ex-justice James F. Byrnes. Mr. Hillman approved the first, but turned down the second. And now Mr. Hillman's activities, plans and publicity are all upon a considerably larger scale than those of Mr. Hannegan's committee. Also there is more energy and enthusiasm about the Hillman committee's campaign than about that of the Hannegan committee.

TO SUCH an extent is this so that it is reasonable to say that if everything important about the fourth-term fight is not "cleared through Sidney" it should be and that if Mr. Hannegan is not working in the closest possible touch with Mr. Hillman he is making quite a mistake. For, it is Mr. Hillman who is making the fight. There man who is making the fight.

MENTALLY DEFICIENT CHILD
I just don't know how I would act if I had a child severely handicapped mentally. I think I know how I ought to act, and what my attitude toward the problem ought to be. But being human, like other people, I might not look at the matter in a way as reasonable as I think I can now.

You and I know some parents of such children, who are very intelligent in other matters, but who in respect to the mentally defective child seem to be utterly unreasonable. A certain mother of a boy of twelve, only about five years old mentally, cannot be persuaded to put that boy into an institution. There he could be made comfortable and socially and mentally could have better education than any home could provide.

The parents would be relieved of his care, and they and the other children of the family, of the constant, unspeakable embarrassment of the presence of such a child on his account, forever hovers over them! The parents cannot nearly do their best at work or play, and the normal brothers and sisters are hindered as nobody else can know.

But this loving, gracious, self-denying mother always answers: "He's my boy; he is one of our family. We owe it to him to keep him always with us, and to minister to him at any personal sacrifice."

It is not the mentally handicapped child who suffers most, but his loved ones, particularly the mother; and my heart hurts for her.

There are private institutions, small and homey, which would afford this child what the best homes cannot. And what a weight they take off the mother's neck! There the other children, much like them, accept him as one of their social group and he is happy; whereas at home, all the children of the neighborhood, except those much younger, perhaps, tease and treat him as an odd, having nothing to do with him.

For those who cannot afford private schools for the child markedly defective mentally, there are state institutions, most of which are excellent, where these children are cared for exceptionally well, and given opportunity to learn with other children, and mingle with them happily.

If I had a child severely handicapped mentally, I could, in case I could use my head, place him in an institution, for his sake and for his family's sake.

Question: Although I am in my late fifties, I still use "I" after my name. My father has been dead for several years, but it is my understanding that I should continue to use "I" after my name. Is this correct? When should "second" be used after a man's name?

Answer: It is incorrect for a man to continue using "I" after his name after the death of senior. Junior is the son of senior; "second" means a nephew or cousin of the man of the same name.

Washington Report

War In Europe Reaches Final, Clean-Up Phase
Allies Literally Chop Wehrmacht Into Pieces
Democrats Sore On Killand

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Some Washington authorities say the war in Europe is now in the clean-up phase—and that, in fact, this situation has existed for some time.

It is no longer a question of deciding, and finally beating the Wehrmacht, these authorities explain. The German army has been beaten for more than a year now. It was beaten when it lost its power to punch back with counterattacks. The view held by some authorities, therefore, is that from now on it will be a process of chopping the Wehrmacht to pieces, with piece by piece surrendering. There is no expectation that Corporal Hitler will agree to an unconditional surrender of all German forces.

Unless Germany does capitulate, however, all signs point to an Allied blitz against Nazi cities on a scale undreamed of by even the most rabid supporters of air power. From forward bases in France, Belgium and Italy American and British heavy and medium bombers and fighters by the thousands will be able to maintain a non-stop assault on German positions and industrial targets. Most military men believe that under such a pounding the most stalwart Germans eventually will buckle.

While some government observers have made no secret of their distaste for Russia's maneuvers in the field of international politics, there is no one who can condemn her magnificent co-operation with the other nations in the military prosecution of the war against the Nazis.

The Russian armies, under the direct command of Premier Josef Stalin, have turned in an inspired performance on the battlefield ever since the Nazi invasion of her territory.

Throughout the war, Russia has steadfastly displayed a willingness to co-operate with the Allies 100 per cent in a military way, and the current proof that the attitude has not been changed by Russian successes.

Course of the war in recent weeks has dispelled the suspicion that Russia, without waiting for the Allies, would over-run Hitler's Reich and refuse to share her place at the peace table with Britain and the United States.

The Pearl Harbor disaster appears to be shaping up as one of the big issues of the presidential campaign. Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Michigan) is holding in abeyance a resolution for a congressional investigation pending completion of the Army-Navy probes now under way.

Clarence Budington Kelland, the noted author, touched off a storm in Congress by his remark to a Republican state convention that the president "cannot avoid responsibility" for the Pearl Harbor debacle. Democrats, acutely conscious of the Republican campaign, were quick to attack the GOP national committee for his remarks. From all indications it appears that the fight will be white hot before November.

The liquor industry was delighted by results of the August liquor making holiday when it was permitted to turn out potable spirits for the first time since October, 1942. Present estimates are that the August production was between 40 and 50 million gallons.

This is expected to be enough to see the industry through to the fall of Germany—and then some. Further, there is a strong possibility that another "liquor holiday" may be declared next year if it need develop.

All this adds up to assurance that the liquor drought of late 1943 and early 1944 definitely is a thing of the past. You are probably going to get about all the beverage alcohol you need for the rest of the war.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

I went to my doctor last evening because I had a pain in my stomach and having read so much about cancer and ulcers I was scared stiff and wondered whether I would live another four weeks.

The doctor examined me thoroughly and told me that I shouldn't take so much and worry less. He told me to take some vitamin pills for a couple of weeks, and I'd be all right.

While I was in the waiting room I overheard some of the people talking.

They were telling each other about their aches and pains, and you could just see and hear and feel how important they were to themselves.

A perfect stranger sat next to me. Without introduction he told me about his car troubles and how they annoyed him. I tried to steer the conversation to more important things and succeeded in getting him away from the subject.

So he told me about his chicken farm update, and how he lost 1,000 of his fowl from some kind of paralysis, and how smart his chickens were. They knew his whistle when it came to feed them and lots more about himself and his smart son and his chickens.

Then while I was on the examination table several people called the doctor on the phone. One had a cold, what should she take for it. Another had a rash on his chest, could the doctor prescribe for him over the telephone.

Always "I" with a capital "I"—and I began to wonder whether this world will really be so much better and nobler and finer when the war is over.

It seems to me that a stomach-ache still takes precedence over international treaties in the human mind, and your chickens' nip is more personal to you than Dumbarton Oaks.

Did you notice how quickly the Parisians reverted to their old ways after we had liberated their city?

Out came the buried wines and cheeses and the finery. The bistros and sidewalk cafes reopened, and there was dancing and kissing and all the goings-on of centuries of Paris and of human beings.

I wish our statesmen and leaders would just keep that in mind in reshaping the world.

You've got to take people as they are and not as you would like them to be. Spiritual progress is a very, very slow process.

As long as there is illness and poverty and vitamin pills and pip chicken coops to be cleaned and dishes to be washed, socks to be darned, children to be fed, rent to be paid, a hundred petty chores to be done, the people who have to do these chores have too many other things to attend to than to be knights in shining armor.

All in all human beings are all right enough for the kind of world we live in.

Just don't let us kid ourselves. Copyright, 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

WORK OF THE CAESARS

Turning the pages of history back a couple thousand years, it turns out that...

Julius Caesar was born in wealth. His mother was of a distinguished family and his father died his mother trained him for a political career. Caesar was a pampered child, reared in the lap of luxury. He was noted for his extravagance and political intrigues. When the masses were enfranchised, Caesar played to the crowd and became a popular leader. He joined forces with radical parties, and as soon as he came into full power, the Roman Constitution ceased to exist.

The Romans under Julius Caesar had a regular WPA with highway building to take up unemployment, and projects for public entertainment and rationed almost everything including cereals, wine, oil, meats, vegetables, skins, leather, fur shoes, timber, clothing, poppy seeds, snail's meat, underwear and Numidian mantles.

There was recent control and transportation regulations, down to the "tax of a laden ass per mile." Unless the transportation companies carried more than two persons per ass, they lost money. And since no ass was strong enough to carry more than two persons, there they were.

Diocletian became Emperor of Rome in 284 A. D. He ruled for twenty years, during which time he completely wiped out local self government, centralizing all government within himself. He set up new taxation and coinage systems, dissolving the states and subdividing the Republic into districts. Just as the New Deal talked of dividing the United States into only five Districts a few years ago.

Writings of Diocletian sixteen hundred years ago. Lactantius said: "He tried to fix by law the price of articles offered for sale. Thereupon for the vilest trifles, much blood was shed, and out of fear..."

Protests To O.P.A. On Black Market Gasoline Price

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—(INS)—An indignant Philadelphia "outraged" at the expense of black market gasoline, appealed to the regional office of price administration for action today—and was assured of getting it.

The motorist, whose name was withheld by the O.P.A., wrote a letter of protest to the regional office, admitting he purchased gasoline without ration coupons, but protesting the filling station operator's attempt to boost the price of black market gasoline from 45 cents to 60 cents per gallon.

"It seems to me," he wrote, "that this is one of the most brazen kinds of price violations I have ever heard of."

"I am asking your office to do its duty. I thank you for the attention this matter will receive."

Frank J. Loftis, district O.P.A. manager, declared his office would be only too glad to give the matter some "attention."

Both the motorist and the filling station operator, he said, will be prosecuted on the grounds that "black market buyers are just as guilty as black market sellers."

John A. Altman, aged 53 years, of R. D. 4, Harlanburg road, died in the Jameson Memorial hospital, Friday at noon, as a result of injuries received Tuesday night, in an automobile collision on the Harlanburg Hill, Route 108. NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—Republican chiefs have followed a time honored custom by launching their 1944 election campaign at the annual McClure bean soup in Snyder county Saturday. . . . Veterans' politics solemnly warn that the affairs is not the bean soup "rally" at McClure. It is simply the McClure bean soup. . . . The custom of Civil War veterans serving the thick, tasty soup at occasional reunions after hostilities closed. . . . Harry Kahley, a Union Army cook, first concocted the soup for a reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic. In 1891, the bean soup had become an annual affair.

Bean soup veterans, who counted more than 35,000 annual dishes following the 1943 meeting, report that the quality of the soup lies in the beans that are used in the soup. . . . Last year, more than 30 thirty-five gallon kettles of the steaming potage were served. . . . Approximately 1300 pounds of beef and a like amount of beans were used. . . . The price, just a prewar 25 cents. . . . The speeches are free.

The state sanitary water board has made a searching study of the pollution of an estimated 100,000 miles of waterways in Pennsylvania prior to outlining a program designed to eliminate the waste materials and provide clean streams and rivers. . . . H. E. Moses, chief engineer for the health department and a board member, has pointed out that the projects "will fit in admirably with postwar work and provide employment immediately after the close of the war for our returned servicemen and for war workers who must find jobs while we are changing from our war efforts to a sound peace time economy." . . . He warned that the problem of stream pollution must be attacked in a statewide basis because it will have "a bearing upon the health and welfare of the public."

The board has selected initial proposals calling for the treatment of sewage before it is discharged into streams. . . . It recommended a "primary" treatment consisting of quiescent sedimentation or its equivalent. . . . This would remove about 35 per cent of the polluting matter," Moses said. "If conditions indicate the need, then complete treatment will be required and such treatment should remove approximately 85 per cent of the pollution load. For intermediate conditions would be called for." . . . He added that industrial and domestic operators should be required to treat waste waters to meet certain standards. . . . Moses said there were approximately 300 sewage treatment plants in Pennsylvania. . . . Realization of the board's program would end a battle that began in 1923.

Tokyo Admits Yanks Land In Philippine Area

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS)—A Japanese imperial headquarters communique broadcast in Tokyo admitted today that American forces had made successful landings on Peleliu Island in the Palau group and on Morotai Island in the Halmaheras.

The broadcast, heard by the FCC, was the first hint given the Japanese people of the two invasions which placed the Americans 600 miles east of the southernmost Philippines at Peleliu and 300 miles south of those islands at Morotai.

Tokyo said the landings in the Palau Islands were made after "several previous attempts had been repulsed." The communique added that "the enemy has been increasing his military strength and our forces are engaged in fierce fighting."

The board has selected initial proposals calling for the treatment of sewage before it is discharged into streams. . . . It recommended a "primary" treatment consisting of quiescent sedimentation or its equivalent. . . . This would remove about 35 per cent of the polluting matter," Moses said. "If conditions indicate the need, then complete treatment will be required and such treatment should remove approximately 85 per cent of the pollution load. For intermediate conditions would be called for." . . . He added that industrial and domestic operators should be required to treat waste waters to meet certain standards. . . . Moses said there were approximately 300 sewage treatment plants in Pennsylvania. . . . Realization of the board's program would end a battle that began in 1923.

Mr. and Mrs. Darsie, of Scottsdale, are spending several days at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. H. G. Darsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pollock, of Pittsburgh, were week end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Pollock and Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Pollock.

Mrs. Glenn Erwin was called to the bedside of her husband at the Navy hospital, Norfolk, West Va. Mr. Erwin had the misfortune to fall about 45 feet and has serious injuries.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Actually there are eighty-four more shopping days until Christmas. That is if your gifts are for the home folks. If your purchases are for our boys and girls in service you have only twenty-four days left. The sooner you line up that box and get it in the mail the more certain you will be of its being delivered on time.

Gathering together enough good sensible material to fill the regulation box is indeed a task. Most of the items we would naturally like to send are not available. Some of the substitutes now offered are of too poor quality or available in such limited quantities that they cannot be included. The only solution is to make the best of what we have—with a little ingenuity tossed in.

Recently, several service organizations made a survey of what the G. I. boys and girls really wanted in their boxes. The most popular item was lighters. Next in popularity were flashlights and fountain pens. Few things are as hard to buy as those three items. Normally we think that cigarettes would be a top favorite. However, we learn by our letters that plenty of cigarettes are usually available in all the theaters of war. On the other hand, pipe, pipe tobacco, pipe cleaners and cigars rate high in their choice.

Shaving soap is another favorite with the fighting forces. Sending soap instead of shaving cream is a wise gift as the soap can be used for washing when necessary. Socks are a big favorite—but make sure they are the right color and size. Stationery—particularly the V-mail type rates quite a few votes.

Along the line of cats, cheese and fruit cake are the leaders. One thing we have found in shipping Christmas parcels is that it is very unwise to include any item of food that will not withstand high or low temperatures or that will not remain fresh and edible for at least six months. Many of our boys are on the move almost constantly and it often takes considerable time for the gifts to catch up with them. Nothing is quite so disappointing as to receive a package and then to find that part of the contents have spoiled.

Last year more than 100,000 Christmas parcels were not delivered. This because 1) they were not properly addressed 2) they were not wrapped securely 3) the contents had spoiled in transit. Your post office and both the Army and Navy have issued repeated warnings to all civilians to follow the rules in making a shipment. Box manufacturers have cooperated in as fine a way as possible in furnishing boxes of the right size and weight. After that it is up to us to see that we follow instructions.

Incidentally, if you think you are having a tough time "filling your Christmas package, consider our job. This year we will pack and ship over 550 boxes. How or where we will secure the necessary gifts is still an unsolved problem. However, come October 15th we will have them in the mail. Every former employee of Johnson Bronze will, as they have for the past two years, be remembered in as adequate a manner as possible. It's our way of saying Merry Christmas—and our greeting will go around the entire world.

Defense Opens In Mercer Trial

Morell's Story Of Triple Slayings Will Be Attacked By Defense

MERCER, Pa., Sept. 16.—(INS)—With the commonwealth's case against Janice Graham closed, the defense today promised to deal a few telling blows of its own on behalf of the pretty 21-year-old domestic accused of all three slayings on the Everitt Wilson dairy farm last October 7.

Defense Attorney T. A. Sampson, in his opening address to the five woman-seven man jury, declared that he had located a witness who, "shortly after 11 o'clock on the day of the murders saw Helen Wilson alive and Morell was there. He talked to both of them."

In his story of love and death on the Mercer county farm, Morell contended that when he arrived at the house about 11 a. m., Mrs. Katherine Wilson, the dairyman's mother, and a hired hand, Robert McKay, were already dead of gunshot blows, and that Mrs. Helen Wilson, the farmer's wife, was dead or dying on the kitchen floor.

The state defense witness, however, will not appear in court. Presiding Judge George A. Rowley was told that the man, Howard C. Stamp, a bakery truck driver of Near Girard, Ohio, is in Youngstown hospital so permission was granted to have Stamp make a deposition Monday night in the presence of both prosecution and defense counsel.

Shortly before closing its case the prosecution produced five love letters written by the girl to Morell before his trial last December, when he was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in the deaths of Mrs. Helen Wilson.

In the cross-examination of Morell which followed, the defense sought to show that the 21-year-old orphan trifled with the girl's affections to protect himself.

"Did you pretend you were in love with Janice so she would not testify against you?" Sampson asked Morell.

"There was no pretending about it," the youth answered unhesitatingly.

Throughout the cross-examination, Morell insisted:

"I told the true story at my trial. Up until that time it was recalled, the youth had assumed blame for the triple tragedy. Three times since then, however, he has placed the blame squarely in the lap of the girl, who thus far has sat calmly throughout the proceedings, never wincing as the state entered damaging statements after damaging statements in its attempt to send her to the electric chair.

Famous in Netherlands history are several occasions when the dikes were broken to thwart enemy attacks. The soldiers of Louis XIV of France were kept out of Amsterdam by flooded fields in 1672. A century earlier relief for the city of Leyden, after weeks of siege by the Spaniards came by boats sailing over new sea made by cutting dikes.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

is no mistake about that. If any evidence of this is needed, it can be gained from the September 8 "news releases" of the Hillman committee sent out from its national headquarters and marked "For Labor Press Exclusively." These "news releases" of this date are very voluminous and, though they are primarily designed to stimulate the labor press to help in the great drive for a dollar contribution from every "CIO member and friend," they cover the whole field and are by no means confined to labor questions.

FOR EXAMPLE, this interesting statement is made in the first release: "The CIO Political Action Committee plans to print and distribute not less than 50,000,000 pieces of literature dealing with the issues of the national political campaign. Each piece is designed as a weapon in the hands of American workers and their friends. Besides the 50,000,000 pieces of literature, CIO-PAC intends to buy radio time, newspaper space in big towns and small, rent billboards, distribute posters, use sound trucks and the whole paraphernalia of a modern political campaign. The stakes are the largest in American labor history and labor intends to do its best to win its fight."

THE NATIONAL committee's campaign is upon no such scale as that. For one thing, 50,000,000 pieces of literature is an unheard-of campaign quantity. It will take a very large sum indeed to print, mail and distribute. The other activities outlined in the "news release" are likewise expensive. Nothing is said here of the cost of the registration drive which the CIO-PAC is making, but no one can consider the program as thus outlined, without appreciating that it will take more money to carry out than the Democratic committee will be able to collect, or than Mr. Hillman concedes he will have. That Mr. Hillman knows the program will require an immense amount is evidenced by the kind of appeal the labor press is directed in these "news releases" to make.

IT IS TOLD, for instance, to point out to the "worker" that his dollars are to match those of the duPonts, the Sloans and the Rockefellers. No mention, of course is made of the Biddies, the Morgenthaus, the Davies, the Harrimans and other rich and liberal contributors to the Roosevelt campaign funds. One would think that these were all poor boys who never had been asked to "come through." The labor press is also directed to dwell upon the idea that the fruits of a Dewey victory will be unemployment, slums and apple stands. The suggestion is made that by stressing this idea the dollars "will be donated quickly." There are, of course, a good many other instructions to the labor press in these exclusive releases, but enough has been given to show the scope, the energy and the host of the CIO-PAC campaign.

IT EXCEEDS that of the National Committee on all accounts. Its program overshadows that of the National Committee and its own account of its activities justifies the statement that Mr. Hillman has really taken over the fourth-term fight and made it his own. Under the circumstances, if things are not being cleared through him, then Mr. Hillman is not getting what he is entitled to. And his record shows that he has been pretty successful in getting at least that.

Band Presents Vivid Between-Halves Show

Football Program At Stadium Is Enlivened By Spectacle Staged Between Halves

Combining jitterbugging with twirling, the red-and-white uniformed majorettes of the New Castle band added the spice to the carefully worked-out between-halves concoction at last night's game with Butler at Taggart stadium.

Saluting the opposing team first, the band, under Joseph Replogle, roused a roar of approving enthusiasm from the Butler fans. A large keystone was the first formation facing the New Castle rosters, with "Trees" as the rather surprising choice for a first number.

Swinging quickly into "The Pennsylvania Polka," the band re-established the football mood of the evening, with the Butler cheer leaders coming over to give with the New Castle leaders.

More confetti was tossed around during this game than last, not only when the one touchdown was made, but when New Castle got close enough to make another one hopeful.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

nothing was offered for sale, and the scarcity grew much worse, until after the death of many persons, the law as repealed from sheer necessity.

Thomas Jefferson fifteen hundred years later writing about planned economy said:

"Agriculture, manufacture, commerce and transportation, the four pillars of prosperity, are most thriving when left most free to individual enterprise."

By the middle of the first century under the Caesars there were 320,000 Romans receiving doles of corn from the state, and other politicians of the time said if one politician could retain control by doling corn why not include olive oil, free shows and free baths.

There was much talk even in these days of freedom, but with each and every clamping down on the freedom of the people the Empire faded out of existence. For seven hundred fifty years prior to Julius Caesar, Roman citizens had enjoyed more freedom than ever before experienced by man, but it took Julius and his successors only one hundred fifty years to end it in barbarism. Then from 390 A. D. to 1300, after their planned economies, came the thousand years of night, that period called the Dark Ages. During that period there were no banks, no insurance companies, no transportation companies, no mail service and no newspapers. Not a builder, poet, historian, orator, painter, musician nor an architect was produced. The world was managed by priests and police. Society slipped into slavery, men and women became depraved, selfish, base and dishonest. Famines were frequent and in their fights for food men were little better than the beasts of the jungle.

The Four Freedoms proposed by the New Deal, Freedom of Speech and Religion and from Want and Fear constitutes a program beyond the power and ability of finite man to perform. For such a program to succeed it should have been started in the Garden of Eden under Divine supervision and control and God probably now regrets that the New Dealers were not present to advise in the program of creation.

No mortal man has power over want and fear; still no promise is too vague or fantastic for the New Deal to espouse if it will swindle the people out of their rights and privileges and retain the New Dealers in power.

Looking over all that is left of our Four Freedoms, we find only those four lusty buckaroos, known as Boss Flynn, Boss Hague, Boss Kelly and Boss Hillman. There is a hand to draw to.

CADMIUM COATINGS

Cadmium is now being electroplated in coats over 50 times thicker than those normally deposited to protect from corrosion iron and steel sheets used in certain war equipment. It greatly extends the scope of cadmium plating which was formerly applied chiefly to small metal radio parts and other plane equipment.

My Machine . . .

This is my machine. Mine! There are many other machines but this one is mine. It is a part of me—I am a part of it. We are one.

Together we are forging the weapons of Victory—Weapons that will strike the shackles from men who would be free—As I am free!

With Thy help, O Lord, I will bring forth the most and the best That is possible from my machine.

For it depends on me. It multiplies the power of my hands—when my hands are on the job. It does true work—when my brain is alert to control it. It does not falter—unless I falter. It does not stop—unless I forget.

In the lands of my enemies, slaves, under the whip, Labor at their machines. But I am free!

I abide by my machine of my own free will. No man is my master—no man my slave. And this way is best. It is!

By unfaltering example we shall prove it is best—My machine and I.

By argosies of ships and tanks and planes, In the only language the enemy understands, We shall prove it.

This is our pledge—mine and my machine's—Till Freedom's light comes on again.

DENY CHARGES RACIAL ISSUES IN CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS)—Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan charged that Republican speakers have injected racial prejudice into the national campaign by their references to Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, was termed an "unwarranted interpretation" today by GOP Chairman Herbert Brownell Jr.

The attempt to make it appear that the issue of Hillman-Browder control of the New Deal is a race hatred is an unwarranted interpretation, Brownell declared. "It is designed to get the New Deal off the spot on which it has been placed squarely by Mr. Sidney Hillman."

The GOP chairman, recalling his pledge to the national conference of Christians and Jews to keep the campaign free of un-American issues, stated flatly that the "disclosure of Sidney Hillman's attempt to capture control of the New Deal party in no way violates that pledge."

Just back from a series of visits to Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan, Brownell also claimed that the CIO-PAC leader has proved to be a "distinct liability" to the Democratic party, with resentment evident everywhere against Hillman's alleged "high-handed tactics."

Porcelain Used In Land Mines

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Porcelain land mines, non-metallic and non-detectable, are being used effectively in war zones overseas by the Allies, it was revealed today in the first of a two-day session of the American Ceramic Society at the Summit Hotel.

These mines were developed by the Onondaga Pottery Company of Syracuse, N. Y., with parts being made in plants in New Castle, Barberton, O., and some West Virginia towns. Countless carloads of the mines have been sent overseas. Substitution of glass or porcelain for products formerly made of steel was the topic of today's discussion. The use of glass pipes in private homes and office buildings was cited as an example. More than 200 delegates and wives were present at the convention.

Start Cleaning Up Hurricane Debris

BEACH HAVEN, N. J., Sept. 16.—(INS)—Visitors were barred from several shore resorts on the southern New Jersey coast today, as workmen strove to clean up millions of dollars worth of damage wrought by Thursday's hurricane along the Atlantic seaboard.

Long Beach Island, on which Beach Haven and several smaller resorts are located, has barred sightseeing motorists and visitors for 10 days. The island was one of the most severely hit stretches in the path of the hurricane.

Ocean City, 10 miles south of Atlantic City, has also clamped a ban on visitors until after this weekend.

Jury May Get Case Against James
Harry Kent In Somerset
Court Today

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 16.—(INS)—The case against James Harry Kent, 42, was expected to go to the jury late today following heated denials by the defendant that he had anything to do with the backwoods slaying of George Kern, Johnstown dental technician, last December.

Kent, who faces the electric chair on first degree murder charges, explained that he received the $1,485 which was found on him and at his residence at the time of his arrest from his own employment and from "numbers" sources.

When Kern's body was discovered December 11th with six bullets in it, a large sum of money and a large diamond ring were missing. The state contends that the money "flushed" by Kent was part of the loot taken from the dead man.

Ed Grayback, a foreman at the Windber mine where Kent worked, testified that Kent showed him a roll of money under the rug in Kent's home December 9th, which was before the time of death, according to a doctor's testimony. Grayback also said that Kent wore a large diamond ring before the date of the slaying.

BABIES AND MOTHERS

The care of a family is an important and very difficult job. It is a full time job whether there is one baby or ten.

One of the most important things is a little relaxation and rest for mother.

Dad should try to take over for a short time every day and give mother a chance to get away from her responsibilities.

Sometimes neighbors can help each other by one mother taking charge of both families while the other takes a little time off.

Mother's nerves will last longer and baby will have better care if she can get away from her job occasionally.

What Does The Future Hold For The Motor Truck Industry?

It's hard to say, just as it is hard to say what the future holds for our economic future, our political future, our industrial future.

The motor truck industry hopes for an intelligent pattern of national motor transportation. A co-ordination of state laws as to weights, lengths, axle limits and safety regulations in order that motor trucks may be standardized over the nation.

Highways geared to the transportation problems of the post-war world, and the elimination of phantom restrictions and state line trade barriers.

Since the dawn of the twentieth century the motor truck industry has been a growing one, an industry developed to meet the growing needs of transportation. Final victory will see it called upon to take up new challenges.

Our chances of post-war order and prosperity depend upon our national intelligence in knocking off shackles that hamper the development that must come.

STOCK MARKET RISE EXTENDED

Aviations Strong Today. Volume Is Smaller, List Undertone Is Strong

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The stock market extended the new advance which commenced with a 1 to 4 point upsurge yesterday. Although volume was small the list had a strong undertone with many leaders converting light demand to good fractional gains. Aviations were strong.

Douglas Aircraft was up to another 1944 top on a half point advance. Glenn Martin and Boeing gained nearly as much. Bethlehem Steel and General Motors strengthened. In rails New York Central held a gain of 1/8.

Utilities were fairly active but little changed. Amusements, electricals, and chemicals were mixed. Graham-Paige advanced 1/4 on a large volume. Texas Corp. paced the oil up with 1/8 gain.

Noon prices: U. S. Steel 56 1/2; United Aircraft 30 1/2; Sinclair 17 1/2; General Electric 37 1/2; Chrysler 90 1/2. The bond market continued steady. The curb market was firm in line with big board issues.

Russian Fliers Help Finland In Attack On Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 16.—(INS)—Some 60 Russian planes, attacking in three waves, were revealed today to have helped the Finns wipe out the German bridgehead established on Hogland Is. as the Nazis sought to capture that strategic Finnish island.

The Soviet aircraft made three raids on German ships lying off the Gulf of Finland Island, and several of the Nazi fleet were known to have been sunk or set afire. Early reports indicated that as many as 12 German vessels were set ablaze as the Finns smashed an attempt to capture the strategic isle.

Camp Reynolds Closing Denied

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 16.—(INS)—Brig. Gen. Jesse A. Ladd today said he had no information which would substantiate rumors concerning the possible closing of Camp Reynolds.

The commandant announced that insofar as he knew there was no change in the situation since June, when similar rumors were circulated. He said: "It is only natural to assume that when the European war has been brought to a successful close many installations will no longer be needed."

"Camp Reynolds will probably come under this classification. We have no definite information relative to moving of the replacement depot at Camp Reynolds."

Where there are many rumors it may be assumed that there is some basis therefore. We have endeavored to verify these rumors without success."

New Agreement For Philadelphia Transportation Men

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—(INS)—The third regional War Labor Board today approved a new contract between the Philadelphia Transportation company and the Transport Workers union, CIO, with the exception of one clause which would have provided incentive bonuses.

The agreement affects 9,200 non-supervisory workers, including bus, trolley and subway crews and maintenance workers, according to Sylvester Garrett, RWLB chairman.

Garrett explained that action on the bonus plan was withheld because Washington officials have not reached a decision on such wage incentives.

Leading the wage provisions is an increase of approximately 2 1/2 cents an hour for approximately 2,350 non-operating employes.

Observance Of Jewish New Year Start On Sunday

Rosh Hashanah Services At Temple And Tifereth Israel Synagogues In Evening

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, will be ushered in at sundown on Sunday evening September 17, as Jews throughout the world gather in synagogues and temples to offer worship and herald the approach.

To celebrate this solemn holiday special services will be held in the orthodox synagogue, Tifereth Israel synagogue for two days, and one day in the reform synagogue, Temple Israel synagogue.

In the older days the festival of Rosh Hashanah marked the beginning of the agricultural and economic year in Palestine. With the destruction of the temple in Jerusalem and the dispersion of the people, new customs were developed in regard to worship. Now the holiday has come to mean a time of prayer and meditation of self-scrutiny and of penitence.

On Monday, September 18, Jewish synagogues will celebrate the traditional new year. This is preceded by a solemn religious service on the eve of the day. The day is universally observed by Jewish people, not because of adherence to an ancient calendar, but because of the religious idea associated with the beginning of a new year.

Services at Temple Israel synagogue will be Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, the topic, "700 and World Realism" by Rabbi Leo E. Turitz. Rosh Hashanah morning services will be at 10 o'clock, and the sermon topic will be "Toward Jewish Dignity" by Rabbi Turitz. High Holy Day choir will render the music.

Tifereth Israel synagogue service will be Sunday evening at 8:30, Monday morning at 7:30, Rabbi Hyman Krash delivering the sermon, "Israel Greatest Need Today". Monday evening services at 8:30 o'clock. Tuesday morning sermon will be "Tragedy of the World" by Rabbi Krash and evening services at 8:30.

O.P.A. Hopes To Reestablish '42 Prices On Goods

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—(INS.)—O.P.A. Administrator Chester Bowles disclosed today that the agency hopes to reestablish 1942 prices on approximately six billion 300 million dollars' worth of civilian goods which will return to the market with the reconversion of industry.

The price administrator told a news conference, however, that he did not know how close O.P.A. could come to this goal, admitting that it will be unattainable in a number of cases where higher wages and material costs require price adjustments.

Bowles asserted that business men will be called in for consultation on reconversion prices, declaring that O.P.A. is not going to try "to jam them down their throats." He expressed the hope, however, that industry will recognize that a full economy cannot be built on high prices and agree to the 1942 levels for the principal consumer goods items.

The six billion 500 million dollar total includes the following items and their 1941 sales volume:

Automobiles and parts, 3 billion 333 million dollars; refrigerators, sewing machines, washing machines, 640 million; vacuum cleaners and other household appliances 260 million; radios, phonographs, pianos, 560 million; heating and cooking equipment, 650 million; clocks and watches, 270 million. All other items which will need new prices make up about 820 million dollars of the total amount of goods which manufacturers will turn to on V-E (Victory in Europe) day.

Appointments By State Liquor Board

Among the appointments announced today by the State Liquor Control Board are the following: From Lawrence County, Jennie Deane, Ida M. Olmstead and Mary A. Verone, all of Ellwood City. C. J. Henschel of Harlansburg, Sarah C. Crawford of Mahoningtown R. D. 7 and Stephanie Korzh of New Castle. The resignation of Thomas D. Jenkins of New Castle was announced also.

Pvt. Lewis Fleegeer Is Home On Leave

Local Soldier, Who Lost Leg On Anzio Beachhead, Home From Walter Reed Hospital

Pvt. Lewis X. Fleegeer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fleegeer, of 602 County Line street, paid his first visit home this week since the fall of 1942, just before he left to take part in the invasion of North Africa, and he knows that what General Sherman said about war is true, for he lost his leg on the Anzio beachhead. It was shattered by shrapnel, necessitating amputation four inches below the knee.

Now he is just waiting until he can be fitted with a new leg by the surgeons at Walter Reed hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment since last May. Previous to that time, he had been hospitalized in Naples. Lewis was wounded on February 29, of this year.

Soon after landing at Casablanca, he was in action against Rommel's army in Tunisia, and then went on to take part in the campaign in Italy.

Anzio Beach was plenty rugged, "Lewis recalls," but most of the action from the time he landed was a pink tea affair.

He has five other brothers on the various fighting fronts, Leo and Jake being in New Guinea, and Albert, John and James, somewhere in France.

Lewis will be home for fifteen days, after which he will return to Walter Reed for further treatment.
